Several from here attended children's day at Big creek Sunday week, and enjoyed the day fine.

Misses Lizzie Keltner and Venie Moss, accompanied by Jacob Price, were in Columbia Saturday.

Will be at Court-House, Columbia, Ky., Oct. 7 and 8th, at Night.

Above we present the picture of Mr. J. T. White one of Adair County's young men. Mr. White is a member of the Firm of Tarter & White who are engaged in the Kentucky celebrated show. They are billed for Columbia the 7 and 8th of October at night, in the Court-House. Remember the date and come out and see one of the best shows that has been in this town for many years.

JUDGE PARKER'S LETTER

Judge Parker's letter is a clear-cut, straightforward presentation of the real issues in this campaign, without any resort to subterfuge or misrepresentation, such as we had in the letter of his opponent. It is manly, forceful, without bombast, free from cheap tricks, fair and honest. The case of the democratic party as made by its platform and its record is fully presented. The man who is honestly seeking the issues in the present campaign will find them here.

The democratic nominee pays special attention to four great questions, though he makes reference to others. These four are Tariff Reform, Imperialism, Economical Administration and honesty in the Public Service. A very considerable amount of space is devoted to these two latter issues because it is apparent to every man who has come in contact with the great business interests of this country, by which is meant not only the big interests but the business interest in a broad sense, that these are the points upon which the present administration record is weakest in the popular mind.

With regard to the questions involved in what has been popularly termed "imperialism," Judge Parker points to the enormous centralization of the government with the tremendous addition to the power of the executive which has followed and very aptly says that this issue, "which has been thrust upon the country, involves a decision whether the law of the land or the rule of individual caprice shall govern." It could not have been put better.

Judge Parker points out that the republican cry that the revision of the tariff must be given over to "the friends of the tariff" is met by a counter cry in the democratic platform that revision and gradual reduction shall be by the friends of the masses and for the common weal, and not by the friends of its abuses, its extortions and discriminations. The relationship of an over-protecting tariff to the creation and maintenance of the trusts is made clear.

"President McKinley," Judge Parker points out, "undertook honestly to carry out the purpose of the act," so far as it bears upon reciprocity; but the powers now in control of the republican party have repudiated his words, and the friends of reciprocity can hope for nothing from them.

Judge Parker shows that the democratic party stands for the American merchant marine, which it will aid by all prayer legislation, but not by subsidies; he shows the part the democratic party played in bringing about the reclamation of the arid lands of the west, and picturing the magnitudes of the work which must be done and the vast amount of money which must be expended through officers of the government, he points to the grave necessity of capable and honest administration, with no possibilities of graft.

The refusal of the republicans to permit an investigation into the executive departments of the government and the facts that such investigation can be obtained only through democratic success, is thus presented:

"Recent disclosures, coupled with the rapid augmentation of government expenditures, show a need of the investigation of every department of the government. The democrats in congress demanded it. The republican majority refused the demand. The people can determine by their vote in November whether they wish an honest and thorough investigation. A democratic congress and executive will assure it."

One of the most interesting passages in the letter is that in which Judge Parker promptly accepts the challenge of President Roosevelt, who, defending the executive pension order, which it is charged was illegal, said: "It is easy to test our opponents' sincerity in the matter. The order in question is revocable at the pleasure of the executive. If our opponents come into power they can revoke this order. Will they authoritatively state that they intend to do this?" To this challenge Judge Parker says:

"This suggests the suspicion at least, that the order was made to create an issue—that it was supposed to present a strong strategic position in the battle of the ballots. But as the making of that order was in my judgment an attempted, though perhaps unwitting, encroachment upon the legislative power, and therefore unwarranted by the constitution, the challenge is accepted. If elected, I will revoke that order. But I go further and say that being done, I will contribute my effort toward the enactment of a law by both houses of congress and approved by the president that will give an age pension without reference to disability to the surviving heroes of the civil war, and under the provisions of which a pension may be accepted with dignity because of the consciousness that it comes as just due from the people through their chosen representatives, and not as largest distributed by their chief executive."

One other exceedingly interesting reference to the Roosevelt letter is contained in that portion of the letter relative to remedies for the trust evil. It will be recalled that Mr. Roosevelt's letter contained a sweeping reference to Judge Parker's mention of the common law, the republican nominee evidently assuming that Judge Parker's reference was either a slip or evidence of ignorance of the law. To this Judge Parker says:

"Whether there is any common law which can be applied and enforced by the federal courts cannot be determined by the president or by a candidate for the presidency. The determination of this question was left by the people in framing the constitution to the judiciary, and not to the executive. The supreme court of the United States has recently considered this question, and in the case of the Western Union Telegraph Co. vs. the California Publishing Co., to be found in the 181st volume of the United States supreme court reports, at page 92, it decided that common law principles could be applied by United States courts in cases involving the interstate

"His Black Mammy Reared Him"

The most distinguished private colored citizen of Pulaski county said as follows to the Somerset Journal man:

"George Stone is close to the mountain negroes. He was reared from a baby boy by a black mammy, and in all his career as a lawyer he has never refused to defend a negro he believed not guilty, whether paid or not; and nobody ever heard of him prosecuting a negro he knew in his younger days. The colored people have had nothing to do with this Hunter-Edwards scramble and hundreds of them will support George Stone on election day."

MINERAL WATER.

It Has Been Recently Found on the Farm of J. C. Morrison, Taylor County.

This well is on the Campbellsville and Greensburg pike, five miles from the former place and seven from the latter. The well is 88 feet deep and the water is as cold as a person would want it. It is situated on Mr. J. C. Morrison's place, who is making preparations to take a few boarders.

The following gives a full explanation: Agricultural Experiment Station, State College of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky., July 30, 14, 1904.—Mineral water sent by J. C. Morrison, Campbellsville, Taylor county, Ky., July 18, 1904. The sample was received July 21, 1904, in pint bottle. The water smelled strongly of hydrogen sulphide and there was a deposit of sulphur in the bottle.

ANALYSIS.

The water contains 320.9 grains of solid matter to the gallon, composed mainly of chlorides and sulphates of sodium, calcium and magnesium, some calcium carbonate and traces of iron, potassium and lithium compounds and a trace of borates. The water contained also a very considerable quantity of hydrogen sulphide. Is very good saline sulphur water.
